Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Petting
Parties of Autoists Now
Come Under Law

A RECENT ruling by an appellate court of California provides the authority whereby traffic officers may arrest on a charge of reckless driving, couples who indulge in petting parties while driving automobiles.

Judge Cox of Santa Ana has already started the move to do away with this evil by fining each one of an accused couple $25. It is to be hoped that other judges will follow this lead.

THIS growing evil should be stamped out without any loss of time. It is two fold in the harm it creates. First it is the means of causing many avoidable accidents and second it lowers the morals of the participants.

A man or boy who makes a public show of both himself and his companion has no regard for the girl and cheapens them both.

THE girl who allows undue familiarity has no personal pride and is to be condemned just as much as the man.

Petting parties in parked automobiles in dark streets is another evil which it would be well for the authorities to move against. It is getting to be altogether too familiar a sight. No good can come from the continuance of a practice such as this. The home is the proper place for visiting to be done and the man who is unwilling to visit a girl in her own home should be ostracized.

ANOTHER organization has gone on record as favoring the purchase by the city of the ground formerly known as Glendale-Verdugo Park.

It is a foregone conclusion that a movement such as this will die in the fostering. The last bond election for the purchase of a 300-acre tract for Glendale was decisively defeated and this ought to be convincing proof that the people are not in favor of the park's purchase. The city officials realized at that time that the people did not want the park and left it off of the ballot thinking it would kill any chance the airport project might have.

TO purchase the park from funds in the treasury would not be tolerated by the taxpayers. They realize the fact that there is over one hundred thousand dollars available, namely, $64,568.16 in the reserve, and $37,150.22 in the park and recreation fund. But they are going to insist that the first amount be used to pay taxes and the latter for upkeep of the parks and not for the purchase of the old Glendale-Verdugo Park. Let us again reiterate that if parks are to be purchased let it be by a vote of the people where every citizen can have a voice in the matter.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Twenty Ladies Among the Guests at Big Banquet

A talk on present conditions in Germany where he spent three months, made by Dr. Henry R. Harrower, was the leading feature of the luncheon and meeting of the Exchange Club Wednesday noon at the Tuesday Afternoon Club house with Captain D. Ripley Jackson presiding.

Covers were laid for fifty, about twenty ladies responding to the club's invitation to be its guests.

A delightful act was put on by Helen and Ruth Sayre garbed as old fashioned girls who sang old songs to the accompaniment of an old fashioned melodeon.

Dr. Harrower sang "Wee Doch an' Doris" and Captain Jackson sang "Sunrise and You."

To Dr. James A. Belyea was presented a silver cup bearing the monogram of the Exchange Club with its congratulations on the arrival of his little daughter who has been christened Nancy Stephens Belyea.

Visitors were present from San Francisco.

In his talk Dr. Harrower appeared to indorse the policy of the French in the Ruhr until Germany pays, because the finances of that country are being controlled by a group of capitalists who are exploiting Germany to their own advantage and making the people suffer. The people have no alternative but to go on as they are doing.

The doctor dwelt at some length on the depreciation of the German paper money saying 300,000 marks is the price of a pound of butter. He quoted the hard case of a nurse in a German hospital whose salary is 3000 marks a month, ten per cent of which she has to pay to the government.

With the 2700 marks left she did not have enough surplus above her living expenses to buy a spool of thread with which to make a dress.

Living is very cheap in Germany judged by American standards however, and as an example Dr. Harrower told of his accommodations at a hotel equal to the best in New York or Chicago where he paid but $3 a day for room and board. When he entertained five or six people at dinner it cost him but $1.60 in American money.

When travelers enter Germany they are examined at the frontier and have to make a declaration of the money in their possession. They are searched in the same manner when they leave the country and are not allowed to take away any more than they brought in.

The doctor found ways of making money however. While in Germany he mailed letters to about 160,000 people at an expense of $1000, on which the United States postage would have cost $4000 to $5000 thus saving enough to finance his German sojourn.

LOS FELIZ OWNERS ARE ORGANIZED

Boulevard Protective Association Is Formed by Citizens

TO FIGHT TAX SUITS
L. W. Chobe Is Elected
Chairman in First Meeting Held Today

This morning a group of Glendale citizens who have organized as the Los Feliz Boulevard Protective Association, with L. W. Chobe as chairman, and Mrs. Ida Rittenhouse as secretary, held a meeting at 11 o'clock in the office of Attorney G. H. Wende, for the purpose of taking steps to resist the bringing of suits against them for the collection of small delinquent assessments for the improvement of Los Feliz road of which they claim, they never received notice.

Tonight representatives of this association are to appear before the city council to ask for measures of relief. Whether that relief would take the form of injunctions to restrain Steddon & Blanchard, who now hold the claims, against bringing the suits, had not been determined.

Under the law, as reported by Mr. Chobe and Attorney Wende, Steddon & Blanchard were required to serve personal notice on each property owner assessed and to allow ten days to elapse before filing suit, or after the lapse of a year suits can be filed without such notice. The law permits attorney's fees and costs of suit, bringing the sum demanded in most cases to $25 or $30.

Mrs. Rittenhouse, when seen this morning, stated that an affidavit had been filed at the city hall by a representative of the firm bringing the suits, testifying to personal service on 1363 people within sixteen hours' time. She questioned whether such service could be proved or would be recognized by the courts, but that of course remains to be determined.

Other attorneys and banks of the city have clients who are likewise suffering the penalties of failure to have paid the claims while still in the hands of the contractor who did the work.

It is estimated that enough delinquent claims are outstanding to yield Steddon & Blanchard, if they collect them by process of law, about $18,000.

The next meeting will be held Friday, August 10, at the home of Vivian Ray.

LLOYD GEORGE TO VISIT AMERICA IN SEPTEMBER

To Tell Troubles and Visit
Smaller "Main Street"
Communities

By ED. L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1923, by United Press)
LONDON, Aug. 2.—David Lloyd George will sail for New York late in September on a tour which will take him into many cities of the United States and Canada.

His purpose, as he expressed it in making his plans known to the United Press, is to thank Canada for its "magnificent services" to the Empire during the war and to become personally acquainted with the United States, its cities, its people and its political system.

Britain's war time premier—outstanding figure in Europe during the world conflict—will make a number of speeches during the trip and will visit America's national shrines. His first address will be delivered in Montreal, where he will go immediately after his arrival in New York. He will travel by motor as well as by train, as he wants to get close to the people in the cities and towns through which he passes and, to use his own words, he desires to visit several of the smaller "main street" communities.

Under the law, as reported by Mr. Chobe and Attorney Wende, Steddon & Blanchard were required to serve personal notice on each property owner assessed and to allow ten days to elapse before filing suit, or after the lapse of a year suits can be filed without such notice. PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT HOLLYWOOD

URGES CHRIST SPIRIT

Harding's Intended Address Duly Delivered, Presenting Beauseant

[By Associated Press]
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., August 2. Civilization needs "more of the Christ spirit, more of the Christ practice, and a new and abiding consecration to reverence for God."

This was the message brought from President Harding today to the Knights Templars of California by George B. Christian, Mr. Harding's secretary. By the president's direction, Christian read before the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, at 4 p. m. today, a speech Dr. Harding had intended to deliver in person this afternoon, in transferring the "Beauseant," or sacred banner of the order, from the jurisdiction of Ohio commanderies to the temporary keeping of the California Knights.

The Beauseant is a reproduction of the banner under which the crusading knights of the middle ages fought in their attempts to redeem the Holy Land from the Saracens. The present day Beauseant is on a pilgrimage, being transferred from time to time from one jurisdiction to another, with appropriate ceremonies. President Harding was selected by the Marion, Ohio, Commandery, to bring the banner to California.

"I am sure the mission of the Beauseant will be a failure if its travels are made simply a matter of symbolism and pageantry," the president's message said. "We should glorify the holy name not by words, not by praise, not by displays of arms, but by deeds and service in brotherhood. Some one has said, in speaking of our present day civilization, that we need less of religion and more of christianity. This may be crudely expressed but it contains a great truth. Perhaps I will best express my thought if I say we need less of sectarianism, less of denominationalism, less of fanatical zeal and its exactions, and more of the Christ spirit, more of the Christ practice, and a new and abiding consecration to reverence for God."

"I am a confirmed optimist as to the growth of the spirit of brotherhood."

The president paid a tribute to fraternal organizations founded upon a basis of Christian brotherly love. He told how, in Alaska, he was admitted to membership in the Alaska Pioneers, a secret fraternal order.

"I was obligated never to kick a dog or to work a horse with a sore back or shoulder," he said. "Now that was a simple thing Christ himself would have urged; it was an expression of mercy and affection by these pioneers for the brutes who could not speak a protest, of considerable concern for a life of service."

He said he believed one reason he was president, was invited into membership in so many fraternal orders was "that men wished to have practiced in official life the teachings of brotherhood and friendship and sympathy which have sweetened their own pathways."

It was a "mistaken idea" which sent the original Beauseant "at the head of armed hosts to recover by force and violence the land which had been hallowed by Christ's physical presence," the president said. "Christ was the Prince of Peace, and we who seek to render His name glorious must move in the ways of peace and brotherhood and loving service."

He charged his fellow Knights that the banner "shall not be held as a memorial of deeds of arms, not as a mere piece of ritualistic pageantry, but as the symbol of brotherhood, raised to the glory of our Grand Commander, whose law was love, whose reign was peace."

S. P. DEPOT PLANS ARE APPROVED

Construction to Start in Near Future, F. S. McGinnis Declares

COMMENTS ON ADS

People of Entire Verdugo Hills District to Be Served Here

Work on the new Southern Pacific depot in Glendale will start within a short time, according to a letter received this morning by W. L. Twining, chairman of the advertising committee of the chamber of commerce, from F. S. McGinnis, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific company.

In his communication Mr. McGinnis compliments Mr. Twining on the advertising that is now being carried on by the advertising committee of the chamber.

Mr. McGinnis' communication follows:
"Referring to your request for information concerning the Southern Pacific's modern new passenger station in Glendale:
"Plans have been approved and will be undertaken in the near future. This station will serve not only the residents of Glendale but will also be an advantage to passengers traveling between Hollywood, Eagle Rock, Pasadena and points north. Its location near several well-paved boulevards will undoubtedly encourage persons to board and leave the trains at Glendale, as by so doing they will be able to save considerable time."

"Incidentally, I noticed your first ad in a Los Angeles morning paper Friday. In my opinion, the type of community advertising which your chamber is carrying will bring definite results. You are indeed fortunate in having an experienced advertising man to prepare the copy. If only one city is to be chosen in which to carry such advertising, you have picked the proper one, as it is a fact that the majority of eastern homeseekers coming to Southern California come to Los Angeles first and then radiate from here."

The accident occurred when the car driven by Mr. Noble attempted to pass a motor truck, according to police department records, which state that the hub of the Noble car hit the truck. The driver of the car, the records state, became confused, whereupon the car was turned over.

CHILD KILLED CLIMBING ON CART TONGUE

Leonard Glenn, Seven Years Old, Is Crushed
to Death

SON OF H. B. GLENN

Driver Warned Him to Wait, According to the Police

Leonard Glenn, the 7 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Glenn of Sycamore canyon, was almost instantly killed at about 8 o'clock this morning, when he was run over by a water wagon attached to a tractor driven by D. M. Alcott, who has charge of the watering of some of the streets of the canyon.

The lad was rushed by Mr. Alcott to the Glendale sanitarium, where it was found that he had died before reaching that institution. Dr. Johnson made the examination, which showed that the right chest and the right side of the child's head were crushed, and the left leg broken.

Leonard and his brother, Lowell, according to a statement given the police by Alcott this morning, asked for a ride. Alcott states that he told the boys he could not stop before reaching the intersection of Sycamore and Sierra, but if they would walk up to that point he would stop and let them get on the seat of the tank wagon.

A moment later Alcott heard Lowell's cry, according to the statement. He stopped the tractor and went to where Leonard was lying in the road. Noting the lad's condition, Alcott put him in a passing machine and rushed him to the Glendale sanitarium. The boys, Alcott states, must have tried to climb on the tongue of the wagon while it was moving, whereupon Leonard slipped and fell beneath it.

The body has been taken to the Kiefer & Eyerck Undertaking company.

BRITISH HOPE TO MAINTAIN ALLIES RELATIONS

Unity for War May Extend Through Division of Spoils

BY LLOYD ALLEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, August 2.—Failing to announce an expected break with France and Belgium over reparations, Premier Baldwin, in common with Marquis Curzon in Lords, delivered today identical statements that expressed a hope that unity of the entente that won the war may yet be possible in the division of the spoils.

But the British statesmen stressed the need for prompt action and declared that having failed to reach agreement with her allies on reparations Britain proposes to publish recent correspondence and thus bring world pressure to bear upon France and Belgium.

With permission of the allies, Baldwin proposed to tell commonsense of the recent interchange of notes on reparations. But he made no threat of separate action. "We are still hopeful of securing allied unity," the prime minister declared, while a crowded house that had expected to hear a rupture of the entente cheered.

While Baldwin was urging that discussion which would lead to a financial conference be started at once, Curzon in Commons declared that Europe is sinking rapidly towards ruin and that there might not be time to wait while statesmen argued.

There is no prospect of a joint reply at present, however, nor of any early settlement of the Ruhr dispute, Baldwin said, intimating refusal of France and Belgium on this point had been definite.

Curzon remarked in Lords that the continental allies had even neglected to refer to the draft of a proposed joint note to Germany sent them last week.

Considerable astonishment, especially in French circles, was expressed over the fact that neither Baldwin nor Curzon intimated Britain would reply separately to Germany. Rather, the British plan seems to be to enforce her views through publicity and bring France and Belgium into line through force of world opinion.

Replying to questions in the House after he had made his statement, the premier said Britain will reply to the French and Belgium communications and will "leave no stone unturned to bring together and keep together the allied forces and to secure payment from Germany. He would not hesitate to convene parliament, which adjourns today.

An earnest appeal for preservation of allied unity was the closing note of the prime minister's appearance before commons.

'MAIN STREET' IS AT THE GATEWAY OPENING TODAY

SPECIAL TODAY
Ruth Roland, episode, "The Haunted House."

The announcement of the Gateway theater management that "Main Street," a screen adaptation of Sinclair Lewis' novel describing the small town, beginning today, will be hailed by all motion picture enthusiasts as an event out of the ordinary run of things. This because of the discussion pro and con awakened by the story, which was the most widely discussed in the history of the literary world during the past few years.

Florence Vidor and Monte Blue have the featured parts, the former as Carol Kennicott, the young girl burning with new ideas and the desire to make Gopher Prairie adopt them, and the latter as Dr. Kennicott, her husband. The picture is said to follow the book with fidelity.

Briefly, the story centers about Carol, about whom tongues begin to wag in connection with her friendship for Erik Valborg, a young dreamer, the only person in the town sympathizing with Carol. She goes her way mindless of the gossip, trying to make the town advanced and new-fangled.

Old Valborg, Erik's father, represents the intimacy between his son and Carol, whom he blames for keeping away from the farm. At last the doctor, in his effort to save Carol from a bad reputation, tells her she must stop and be content to live as others do. She consents, but finds it is too late, that Erik, now in love, wants to force her to elope. The climax comes in a big scene in which her life is imperiled.

Two-Spool Sewing Machine Is Here

Mrs. Elwood of the Elwood Gas Appliance company at 227 East Broadway, this city, has secured the exclusive agency in Glendale of the "Eldridge 1700 Deck Electric Two-Spool Sewing Machine" and is tremendously interested in its possibilities for distribution here.

She points out that its most novel feature is the absence of a bobbin, the place of which is taken by the spool thread. She believes the relieve from the slavery of winding bobbins will be a big point in its favor, and also its capacity to do all kinds of fancy needlework of which she has samples on display. A demonstration will be given Friday when she will initial, without cost, the handkerchief of any Glendelian interested enough to call upon her. Curiosity to see this new model in the sewing machine world will doubtless bring many visitors to the Elwood salesroom.

RIVERSIDE FORMS ANTI-DOPE UNIT

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 2.—Riverside will take its place with the leaders in the crusade against the dope traffic.

Following an address by Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, "hero of the Merrimac," who is president of the International Narcotic Education association, representatives of more than twenty civic bodies agreed to meet and form a permanent branch of the association in Riverside. The meeting will be held at the superior court this evening.

The gravity of the dope situation is greatly augmented by the recent announcement from Europe that heroin is being synthetically produced from coal tar, according to Captain Hobson.

Every organization in Riverside was represented at the meeting. A committee of members of the United Spanish War Veterans welcomed Captain Hobson at the Mission Inn, where the meeting was held, and a song, "Hobson's Choice," in honor of the Merrimac incident, was sung by all present.

HARDING SLOWLY FIGHTING WAY TO STRENGTH

Gets Sound Sleep and Makes Great Gains in Night

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH PRESIDENT HARDING'S PARTY, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—President Harding, fighting his way back to health, was aided by another night of sound sleep, according to those on watch at his chamber at 6 a. m.

At that time there had been no activity in the presidential suite for seven hours. Secret service men in the corridors reported there had been no coughing in Harding's room and it is believed he is resting easily.

Just after his final night examination, Dr. Charles E. Sawyer said:

"His temperature now is normal, as it has been practically all day. This we take to mean that the fire is out, so far as the febrile condition is concerned. We do not say that it will stay out. It may not. We hope it will."

Sawyer said the president's general condition was about the same as when the last official bulletin was issued, shortly before five p. m. yesterday. This bulletin said Mr. Harding was resting comfortably after a restless day and that the lung condition was slightly improved.

The physicians settled down today to what promised to be a long period of vigilance over their patient. Lieutenant Commander J. T. Boone remained with him during the night.

While all indications furnished by Mr. Harding's condition pointed to uninterrupted progress towards complete recovery, his doctors, headed by Sawyer, warned that "ups and downs" undoubtedly would occur and that some days the president might not be so well.

Even at the best, Sawyer emphasized, the path to recovery will be slow and Mr. Harding will for some time, be a very sick man.

"There will be many days," said Sawyer early this morning, "before he went to bed, when there will be no big news on the president's condition. There will be days when there will be no apparent change or only a very slight change. We have now settled down to the slow, gradual, and we hope, uninterrupted process of rebuilding the exhausted system of our president. I will say to you what I said to him—that things are so much better than they might have been that we all have cause for the deepest thankfulness."

For the present, at least, the twice daily consultations of doctors will continue. A little later, when the president's progress seems to warrant it, some of the doctors may discontinue their attendance, merely standing by to lead their aid if it is again needed.

Dr. Sawyer and his colleagues have been careful and will continue to avoid making predictions concerning the time of any particular development in the case, such as the abandonment of the two consultations.

The immediate present is all that the doctors are speculating in terms of certainty, Sawyer made plain in one of his frank talks about the case. No matter how skilled, he said, no medical man can tell at what hour or what day Mr. Harding can be considered to have passed definitely out of danger. There is danger so long as the president remains subject to any complications, no matter how slight. These complications, which are common to all sick persons, Dr. Sawyer said, might include anything from an ulcerated tooth to nervousness or indigestion. Such developments, he explained, would be dangerous only in the sense that they would constitute "danger signals" warning the doctors that there was some interruption in the march towards recovery.

Facing the almost certain prospect that some slight complication or "side show," as Sawyer called it, would be the height of absurdity for them to try to set a date when it would probably be safe to move Mr. Harding to Washington. They were impatient over a published report that he might leave San Francisco on Sunday.

That report apparently was a garbled reproduction of a statement made by Dr. Sawyer that Mr. Harding asked him whether it would be possible to "start home" about Sunday.

Sawyer said he told the president it would be going too far to make that prediction.

Mr. Harding is resigned to a slow convalescence and is giving his doctors the very great assistance of his patience. He makes no complaint. Indeed, he feels he has been fortunate, Sawyer said, "in coming safely through a very severe storm."

The sick room program from today on will be the routine of any convalescent who must be watched closely to guard against setbacks. The physicians have a definite task, which is divided into several parts.

These include—

1—Building up of the president's strength by increasing the power of his now enfeebled digestive apparatus to assimilate food.

2—Keeping the system at work throwing off poisons.

3—Insuring the patient a maximum of rest and comfort, so that his exhaustive state will be brought to an end.

"SALE" and "bar-gain" are attractive words. But there is something more attractive in Standard Goodyear Service. For one thing, it is trustworthy. When you buy a Goodyear Tire from us authorized Goodyear Dealers, you know we'll help you get all the mileage out of it. That's real economy. "Bar-gains" sometimes are good.

As a Goodyear Service Station Dealer we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cord tires with a Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service.

THE STORE OF TODAY

To throw the spotlight on any average business street of our country will reveal many average stores. The store of today, however, will always stand alone, even though it be in the group.

This is as it should be, for modern methods of retailing require that a store be something more than a trading place, and the modern demand of the 5 and 10c business requires that a Kress store be something more than just a 5, 10 and 25c store.

This is just what the Kress stores mean to any community. A department store in miniature, with price limits, gives a definite picture of Kress' Glendale, Calif., store.

FAAR - ROUNTREE NUPTIALS HELD AT RIVERSIDE

Miss Marguerite Faar of Ontario and Bayard R. Rountree, son of Mrs. G. H. Wende of Verdugo Woodlands, Glendale, were married at high noon on Wednesday, Aug. 1, 1923, at St. Cecilia chapel, Riverside Mission Inn. Rev. Ira Bennett officiated at the ceremony, which was witnessed by a small group of intimate friends and relatives.

Miss Marie Barnes of Los Angeles acted as bridesmaid, and Warren Murphy of Los Angeles was the best man. A wedding breakfast in the patio of the Inn followed the ceremony, after which the party adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Rountree will go on a motor trip through California on their honeymoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Paar of Ontario. The bridegroom is a law student at Loyola college in Los Angeles. Both of them are prominent in social and university circles in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Rountree will reside in Los Angeles. A wedding gift from the bridegroom's mother was a completely furnished home and an automobile.

KITTERMANS ARE BACK FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Kitterman of this city got home Saturday from a five weeks' tour of the middle west and say they were glad to see Glendale again.

Mr. Kitterman reports that in Nebraska, where they made the longest stay, crop conditions are good and other business prospering except for some depression occasioned by the low price of farm products. The same situation was found in Minnesota, the native state of Mr. Kitterman, where they visited Luverne, the town in which he was born.

Everywhere they heard talk of California and of plans to visit this state which he says argues well for the prosperity of middle western people and insures the prosperity of California. Also, the intent seemed to be general to some day sell out and come to California to spend declining years.

They went by the northern route taking in Portland, Ore., and Spokane, Wash.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING LEAGUE OF NATIONS SET

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
GENEVA, Aug. 1 (United Press).

The fourth annual assembly of the League of Nations, which will convene at Geneva, September 3, for a month's session will be more pregnant of possibilities than any of the three preceding sessions. The assembly gives every indication of being punctuated throughout with surprises. Two important changes or developments that have taken place in the League during the past year.

The League has now actually passed into the hands and control of the liberals, with a real leader. The League, during the three years of its existence has cut its eye-teeth to an extent which it wants something real to chew on.

In other words the League instead of being content with handling more or less routine questions, proposes to butt in of its own initiative on current questions, such as reparations, inter-allied debts, the Ruhr, the near east and everything else that is constituting an obstacle to peace.

While none of these questions figure at the present time on the agenda, owing to the fact that the agenda has to be drawn up and circulated to all Leagues four months in advance, nevertheless the constitution of the League permits all such current questions to be brought up on the floor of the assembly.

Each assembly opens with presentation by the League council of its report for the past year. This corresponds to the usual "address from the throne" and a general debate immediately ensues.

Any member has the right to inject into the debate any current question, such as reparations or the Ruhr, by merely demanding why the council did not take up the question of its own initiative and try to solve it.

While the past assemblies have been a trifle shy about getting into deep water by injecting such questions, there is every indication that such a condition can no longer prevail. The League has admittedly received world-wide criticism for failure to tackle some of the more important questions that are manifestly delaying world-wide adjustment. There is a steadily growing world-wide demand that the League become a more active element in the handling of every great international question.

ROUTINE MEETING OF GLENDALE K. OF C.

Deputy Grand Knight Michael Cannon presided in the absence of Harry Girard, who recently underwent a minor operation at a Los Angeles hospital.

PRINTERS' UNIONS TO CONSIDER NEW HOME SITE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 1.—Representatives of Florida printers' unions will urge the establishment of a new Union Printers' Home, to be located in Florida, in addition to the home at Colorado Springs, Colo., before the convention of the International Typographical Union in Atlanta, Ga., in August, according to information reaching headquarters of the international union here.

Supporters of the project suggest that the climate of Florida is especially salubrious for older persons and that a home located in that state could accommodate superannuated printers, while union members afflicted with lung troubles could be sent to Colorado Springs.

"In the perpetual sunshine of Florida's great outdoors where little shelter is required are found health, happiness and long life," a Palm Beach printer has written. "And contrary to the common idea, summer is as ideal as winter, heat prostration being unknown in the annals of the state department of health."

C. E. Reed, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Oakland, Calif., is visiting Glendale and Los Angeles today for the transaction of certain business matters. When here he owned and lived in the property on Brand boulevard, just north of the site of the hotel to be built at the corner of Brand and California.

SPANISH WAR VETS INSTALL OFFICERS AND INITIATE

Five New Members Are Taken in by the Auxiliary

Installation of the new president and vice-president and initiation of five candidates for membership were important features of the meeting of the Spanish War Veterans' auxiliary held Wednesday night at the Knights of Pythias hall at South Brand boulevard and Park avenue. The new members initiated were Miss Irma Pike, Mrs. Sherrod, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Stowe and Miss Marian Hill.

The Admiral Glass auxiliary of Los Angeles and also the Roosevelt auxiliary were out to assist in the initiatory work and also installed Mrs. Mary R. Hill, president, and Mrs. Fred Butler, vice-president. During the installation the auxiliary had an open meeting to which comrades of the camp were invited. There were about 150 present including members and visitors.

Several addresses were given following the installation, by Mrs. Anna C. Jossmer, who also conducted the installation and initiation, by the department patriotic instructor and also by Past Commander William Reeves, present Commander Dr. W. C. Mabry, Department Treasurer Mrs. Bertha Martens and several other distinguished guests.

Punch and cake were served after the meeting and dancing and a general good time was enjoyed. Music was contributed by members of the auxiliary. The next meeting will be held the third Wednesday in August.

PENDROY'S
BRAND AT HARVARD

See Them in Our Harvard St. Window

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2 (United Press).—If what Lawrence A. Rarick said about his wife is true, then she can't be a "perfect lady," but would do better as sparring partner for Jack Dempsey. In a divorce complaint Rarick said she "knocked him cold with a whisky bottle; spanked him with a slipper; cursed, nagged, berated, derided, mocked, defiled, reviled and hounded him." After nearly choking him to death, she beat him, he alleges. Once when Mrs. Rarick was drunk, she pursued him with three butcher knives, determined to take his life, the complaint says. Police were daily callers at the Rarick home. Finally, when Rarick was knocked senseless one day with a whisky bottle, he told the court he decided he might be a happier man if he left home.

Truths in Epigram

How shall I be able to rule over others, that have not full power and command of myself? — Rabelais.

Work first and then rest. — Ruskin.

It was in making education not only common to all, but in some sense compulsory on all, that the destiny of the free republics of America was practically settled. — Lowell.

LOS ANGELES POLICE

In the sudden dismissal of a Los Angeles police lieutenant, there is brought to light a condition that goes far to explain why the police have done so little to stem the tide of crime. The force was known to contain able and fearless men, with a chief in whom the public felt confidence. On numerous occasions patrolmen have evinced the finest courage, ready to give life to the performance of duty. Yet the aggregate of crime was appalling. The explanation is simple enough now that it has been made. Politicians had seized upon the police force and turned it into a mere agency for the carrying out of their personal ambitions. The real dominant factor was not the mayor, nor the chief, but a coterie of rank outsiders, who had assumed an arbitrary and highly insolent authority.

Chief after chief has taken the place, struggled against odds for a time, and retired. Each had found it impossible to do his work, although conscious of what should be done, and anxious to do it. The present chief was of different stuff. He declared himself. He appealed for the support of good citizens, and he received it. With the approval of the mayor he began to weed out the insubordinates, the ones who took their orders not from official superiors but from small fry politicians. The absence of these disturbing elements will instill new spirit into the rank and file. They will be permitted to act as policemen, and no longer, under threat of dismissal, engaging in pulling chestnuts from the fire for secret bosses.

Fire and police departments have no business to be controlled by politics. When either has become so, the public that pays for its services is being cheated.

SOME GOOD IN THIS MAN

A convict has just been given a conditional pardon out of Sing Sing. He had served all but a few months of a term of fifteen years. The nature of his crime was not stated in the dispatch. Probably it was of a character to be severely condemned, since fifteen-year terms seldom are given to light offenders. But no matter how bad this convict may have been, all the time there was in him the seed of good.

He had been known as "Sam the Bootblack." He had shined shoes throughout the period of detention. For this he had received tips until his savings, placed with the warden, amounted to $890. This might have been enough to have given Sam a start in business in some small way, but he had another plan. He took with him only the odd $90, leaving the rest to be devoted to the benefit of convicts still cut off from liberty. Perhaps he thought that a man with freedom and $20 in cash had enough capital.

His fifteen years behind the walls had uplifted him. "Let me tell you," said a prisoner to a visiting reporter one day, "a man can be considerable of a man even in Folsom." The man who was speaking then was an instance proving the truth of the statement. He obeyed the prison rules, and he went out with the respect of his keepers, to a life of usefulness. "Sam the Bootblack" must possess similar qualities. His part in affairs may continue humble, but whatever his destined role, he has earned the right to regard himself as "considerable of a man."

ENGLAND'S GREATEST CURSE

Writing some of his observations abroad, a returned traveler says: "Booze is England's greatest curse."

One may allow something for prejudice, but reading on, discovers an array of facts that seem to substantiate the indictment. The writer tells of heavy punishment visited upon a man who had shipped a cargo of intoxicants into England. At the same time there seems little doubt that intoxicants are coming to the United States from that country. There is even some British expression of resentment that the land that has placed prohibition in its constitution, should seek to abate this invasion.

When prohibition has become a part of the law, made so by the votes of the people, it seems a little late to be discussing it at all. The whole matter, ideally, should be regarded as settled, and argument closed. Unfortunately, conditions arise that do not permit this. The subject is being kept alive. Objectors traffic with bootleggers, participating, morally, in the guilt of these unclean malefactors. They have caused to be built up an illicit business of vast proportions. Against this business the authorities wage constant war. It is a dangerous and expensive fight that has to be made. There are heard murmurs of protest that it should be made. "See how the law is being brought into contempt," exclaim the violators of it. Thereupon, pointing to themselves, they deem to have shown that good citizens are against the law and against enforcement.

There was a time when in most large American cities the saloon occupied sites now covered by structures housing some useful establishment. Each place was made a lure. Into these saloons toilers went to waste their earnings. Young men visited them, and an army of the young, because of this opportunity, trod the path to ruin. The saloonkeeper became a politician, a dictator; he had to be consulted as to who should be permitted to hold office. So insolent did he become, that his insolence was partly the reason for his undoing. The public did not like his business, and it declined to tolerate him as a boss. So it took his business away, and the boss no longer had a following.

It is troublesome, of course, to fight the secret purveyor of poisons now, but the duty of doing so is clear, and possibility of defeating him is not beyond human accomplishment. It does not constitute the great problem that England has still to deal with. Bootlegging may be more unprofitable. Patronizing the bootlegger may be made to appear, not as a smart trick, but a disgraceful offense against society. The sudden patron of the bootlegger, succumbing to the poison of his regular dosage, will vanish from the scene.

England is sore afflicted by the ravages of drink. This country declines to be so afflicted. Its contest with the defiant element that refuses to be governed by the law, will be prolonged and costly, but as a problem, it is a mere nothing in comparison with the problem that England faces.

A certain class of scientists are mentioned as "earthquake experts." They recognize an earthquake when in contact with it. They do not know what causes it. They win the title through their earnest desire to find out.

This is a fitting time to recall that once when William J. Bryan returned from abroad he met such a tumultuous reception at New York, as to create the impression that the one ambition of this country was to have him as President.

A friend is one who applies the brakes when he sees that you are going down hill too rapidly.

A man's idea of a social rival is another woman who wears better clothes than she does.

DIVIDING HONORS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

It was a cartoonist who started the chain of thought that led to this editorial.

His work lies before us, a smiling father, thumbs in arm pits, slipped feet on a low stool, a laurel wreath embracing his brow in the "place where the hair ought to be" and a big cigar in his smiling mouth. "Father, His Day," is the caption above the picture.

Somebody clipped it out of the Kansas City Star and sent it to me asking why fathers should not be paid as much respect as mothers.

The answer is that they should be, and they probably will be in the future, as things even up. However, in the ages that are now happily past fatherhood has been such a casual affair that it attracted little attention until pay day arrived, when father's market value rose a pace.

The only price of fatherhood has been, by the degree of nature such a price as fathers were willing to pay. The title was earned with no inconvenience; no hospital bills preceded father's canonization and his freedom was in no way curtailed by his offspring unless he so elected.

Motherhood was different, awfully different. Women paid the price of reproduction in pain and travail and men said it was the will of God whereas it was the result of ignorance, prejudice and indifference. The Episcopalians put a prayer for "women in the perils of childbirth" in the litany and left the result to God, while the organized medical profession devoted itself to fighting the men who attempted to reduce the agony attendant on birth, declaring they were "flying in the face of Providence" a form of heresy now happily extinct.

In the matter of children there has been a "division of labor" that could by no arithmetic be made to appear equal.

And women capitalized the fact by canonizing themselves and wearing permanent gold-plated halos after the birth of the first baby. But thanks to alimony and twilight sleep, mothers' tasks are now less heavy. Having babies under modern scientific methods is less trouble than light housekeeping and getting alimony is a surety provided there is anything attachable that belongs to father and mother and the "goods" on the gentleman.

All of which adds validity to the claim that thinkers are making for a little more respect to paternity. When all is said and done digging in an office is not much more inspiring than digging in a kitchen; and seeing too little of one's children may be as great a hardship as seeing too much of them.

Paying the bills is not as spectacular a service to the family as having the babies, but it's a steady and depressing job just the same. No twilight sleep has yet been invented to stand between fatherhood and the bill collector, and a majority of men seem lacking in that something called "light" housekeeping and getting alimony is a surety provided there is anything attachable that belongs to father and mother and the "goods" on the gentleman.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

The oak and the orchid.
The man and the parasite.
The struggler and the idler.
The doer and the shirker.

JAMES W. FOLEY

One who stands firm in disaster and storm.
The other who fades at the touch of adversity.

We have had occasion heretofore to indicate the allegories that exist in nature.

For everything in nature parallels the thing in every part of nature.

The processes of nature are the same.

Whether they affect planets or individuals.

Blades of grass or oak trees.

Flowers or human beings.

That is why the allegories of nature are so many.

Because nature works her will in the same way with all created things.

All are governed by the same rules and forces.

There is not one force for man and one for the tree or flower.

So we make an allegory from the oak and the orchid.

One sturdy or stout fibre, standing up against the blast.

Resisting the force that would destroy because it has been made strong by struggle.

And the orchid parasitic.

Fading at a touch.

Pettied and pampered and exotically beautiful.

Songs of the Poets

Love's Secret—By William Blake

Never seek to tell thy love,
Love that never told can be;
For the gentle wind doth more
Silently, invisibly.

I told my love, I love my love,
I told her all my heart,
Trembling, cold, in ghastly fears,
Ah! She did depart.

Soon after she was gone from me.

A traveler came by,
Silently, invisibly:
He took her with a sigh.

AMERICA WILL DOMINATE THE WORLD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE hundred years from now the greatest seat of power and influence on earth will be the American continent.

By that time Europe will have receded in the background of importance. It will exist mainly for its history and its interest as the source of culture and civilization. But the sceptre will have passed to the western continent.

The reason for this is that America has the two necessary foundations; first, it has the physical basis; second, it has the spiritual basis.

It has vast fields of fertility and unmeasured mineral riches far in excess of Europe. The people have hardly begun to tap these resources.

In the term America are included the United States and Canada, for they are both essentially one, one in the character of the people, one economically, one in every way except certain political ties which doubtless will have faded before the end of another century.

Few of us realize the enormous strides which Canada has made within the space of one or two generations. Not so long ago it was generally considered a wild waste with an inhospitable climate and unconquerable distances. Today, having sprung up as if overnight, it is traversed from the Atlantic to the Pacific by a network of railways, some of them the finest in the world.

Where once roamed herds of buffalo and where savage Indians gained a precarious living by hunting and fishing there are now innumerable farms, great herds of cattle and sheep and manufacturing enterprises of all kinds.

Going west from Winnipeg when you pass the town of Fleming you enter the great wheat growing province of Canada, Saskatchewan, which produces over 60 per cent of the total wheat crop of the Dominion.

The vast stretch of country between Winnipeg and Calgary is a mammoth agricultural area suitable in itself to be the field of a vast empire. The three prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta contain a land area of 466,000,000 acres. Of these acres 200,000,000 are first class land that will raise the finest crops. At present less than 35,000,000 acres are under cultivation with only about a million and three quarters population. Of the remaining 165,000,000 acres of good farming land considerably over 30,000,000 acres lie within 15 miles of existing railroads.

This is a sample of the almost limitless resources of Canada which have hardly been touched.

Similar conditions are found in the west and south of the United States.

Beside this physical base there is the spiritual base. No country in the world has had a better start than the United States and Canada.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

It would seem that when a bootlegger is found guilty, the verdict is no certificate of the high character of the bootlegger's customer.

No police force can indulge in politics and fight a wave of crime simultaneously.

Profits of the Leviathan's maiden trip were $397,000, proving that some people will patronize a ship that has no bar.

A visitor to the beaches any Sunday may see more automobiles than he had realized were in the world.

In applying for a writ of habeas corpus, a lawyer alleged that a prisoner was being detained against her will, a plea that if successful ought to empty all jails.

The patron whose purse was stolen by a materialized spirit at a seance now believes the spirit to have been too grossly material.

Presidential experiences prove that a swing around the circle is almost too strenuous.

Some evidence of Germany's vitality is to be seen in the fact that Ebert wants to be boss again.

They tried the old code of blue laws in a Michigan county and it broke completely under the strain.

Seats in a Berlin theater may be paid for by eggs, the management perhaps deeming it safe to stop such potential missiles at the outer door.

Senator Johnson greatly enjoyed denying something that Ambassador Harvey never had said.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The county prosecutor of Mason county, Michigan, announced that the Sunday laws were to be rigidly enforced. This meant that all places of business were to be closed, all forms of recreation forbidden.

The laws were not enforced in any part. The people laughed at them. The son of the prosecutor went golfing in the afternoon. Papers were delivered as usual. Many of the same people that went to church in the morning, were using the automobile in the afternoon, and nobody interfered.

This will be regarded as the happiest outcome. Sunday is a day of rest as well as for worship. The precise form of rest that one man shall take, so that it causes no hardship to his neighbor, is not to be prescribed. American citizens won't stand for this surrender of liberty, and it is futile to demand it of them.

The person who can't take his religion to the mountain or the shore, hasn't any religion worth mentioning.

Until the President shall have fully recovered, the condition of his health will be a leading topic, and a source of great anxiety.

The issuing of extras announcing the danger that threatened him, as far more grave than the facts then made justifiable, was not a very nice stroke of business. The nickels thus gathered in should be classified with other tainted money.

It is curious to read that President Ebert has again taken the leadership of Germany into his own hands. It would seem to belong to a president. However poor a leader Ebert may be, he could not well lead his country into a worse situation than that in which it is.

"See Europe an Debacle if Reds Rend Germany." Thus a headline, of import far too common. It is easy enough to figure Europe into bloody strife, the process requiring the deft use of "ifs" and "buts," but it doesn't do any good.

If Europeans are crazy enough to fight, of course they will fight. In the meantime it is only fair to give them credit for a grain of sanity.

Ex-Senator Ham. Lewis is in California on law business, but he can't refrain from enlightening the public. The way he has figured out matters, there is to be a war between England and France. A safer guess, and a kinder, would be the opposite.

The gentleman ought not to permit himself to be misled by the small but noisy coterie of Americans who have done their utmost to stir up the conflict he predicts.

A southern California man of sixty is an aviator, and so is each of his four sons. Some of his daughters-in-law are learning, but as yet his wife is content to fly merely as a passenger.

Probably there is nowhere else another family record to equal this.

General Pershing is vociferously welcomed wherever he goes. Of course the pacifists who want the army abolished and the navy junked do not swell the chorus any.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE TIRED CHILD

Children do not know when to stop. Impelled by an almost boundless energy, they keep on with the job they are interested in until exhaustion overtakes them and they begin to cry. Then it is difficult to manage them.

"Ma-ma, ma-ma, hoo-hoo-hoo. Ma-ma!"
"What is it?"
"Ma-ma, ma-a-a-a."
"What is it? What ails you? What do you want?"
"Ma-a-a-a."

"Now you stop this right away. Come in and have your face washed and get ready for supper. Not another whimper out of you now. I've got no time. Stop it, I tell you!"

That's just a tired child and a distracted mother who has made no allowance for this performance in her day's schedule. Now she is confronted by it at the busiest hour of the day, just before the evening meal.

If she provides against this evil hour by guarding the child's energy, things will be easier. He should be called from his play before he is worn out; sometimes fifteen minutes before the last minute he can stay, sometimes longer, depending on the child.

Of course he will protest loudly and in all likelihood raise his voice in lamentation, but the tone will be one of lusty opposition and not the wail of fatigue. He will know what he wants and tell it to the world.

Make him come right along and get himself freshened up for his supper.

He will soon get the habit of having a quiet period before his meal and in any case he will be easier to handle. At least he will come when he is called and submit with what grace he can muster.

So if the mother is busy (and motherhood is synonymous with busy-ness) it would be well to set the alarm clock to call the youngsters in from play before fatigue catches them.

Save a quarter of an hour for straightening them out and then go on from there. It would eliminate that awful "Ma-a-a," that note of misery that finds its echo in so many households toward evening.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

We had known them—the Smitherses—for years. Mrs. Pilgrim often spoke of them as the most devoted couple in her acquaintance. I knew that Tom Smithers very rarely visited the club.

"I don't know why," he said, vaguely, when I reproached him. "I'm not much of a club man, I guess."

Last week Mrs. Smithers died. Last night a light appeared in the Smithers' house, as usual. I found Tom there, sitting in his accustomed corner, his accustomed book before him, his accustomed pipe in his mouth. By and by the conversation wandered into those oddly confidential channels which men rarely sound.

"I know how fond you were of your wife—" I had said, in all sincerity. "I wonder," said Tom, dreamily, "I wonder." He was silent for a time in thought. Then, as if he were exploring his own inner consciousness, rather than talking to me, he said:

"I was fond of her. She was all that a wife could be. Yet an immense fund of resentment was built up against her. She was too good a wife. She hedged me about with too many restrictions
